Statement on Diversity

I am a proud first generation American with a diverse background that includes Sicilian, Northern Italian, French Basque and Native South American heritage. I was also fortunate to have lived abroad, where I completed part of my early education.

Upon returning to the San Francisco Bay Area, where I was born, I began my training as a singer and consequently opened my private voice studio. As a private instructor in this diverse community, I've had the fortune of teaching students from a wide variety of backgrounds, whose talents and journeys have enriched my life and skill set as a teacher.

Thanks to my life experiences, I have always believed in the strength of a rich and diverse community, in all that we can learn from one another and accomplish together. As such, my studio is, and has always been, open to all. It is a studio where the focus lies on talent, strong work ethic, integrity, collaboration, respect for others, and a passion for the arts.
